By P. D.

That which is presented today in our editorial space is a speech made last November 10th in Memphis to the Southern Historical Association by Dr. Benjamin Mays, President, Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga.

The talk made by Dr. Mays struck me as being one of the most brilliant pieces I've had the opportunity to read anywhere. Too, Dr. Bell I. Wiley, President of the Southern Historical Association, in his foreword to the three talks made at the time, had this to say: "May's presentation was an impassioned commentary on the moral inequities; the eloquence and the force with which the speaker stated his views was evidenced by the fact that he was twice interrupted by vigorous applause — a phenomenon without precedent in the Association's history — and by the tremendous ovation that he received at the conclusion of his remarks."

To my mind, the talk by Dr. Mays is a realistic, down-to-earth effort by a sincere man of good will, and is, I feel, worth the effort of reading by any person who is interested in the conditions around us . . . those conditions which have existed by sanction of law for so long.

My sincere congratulations to Alfred and Cleo Moore on the celebration of their fifteenth wedding anniversary, which was last Sunday. I've known Alf for several years and can say, to my own knowledge, that he is one of the most ethical attorneys I've had the pleasure of knowing. In addition, Alf is one of the nicest guys I've known in my lifetime. Alf and Cleo are a credit to the town in which they live, as well as to the institution of marriage, and my wish is for many, many more happy years for the two of them.

Not that four mouths in the East household weren't hard enough to feed, we had to take on two more. They are: Mister Colonel Houndog Rebel, a small Hienz, (You know the old joke about the dog being a Hienz . . . 57 varieties.) and The Texas Ranger, a turtle of some kind or other. As I said, Billie and I have trouble feeding Karen and ourselves, but daughter Karen is unconcerned with such mundane matters. She has that fool cat, Philbur, the dog, and the turtle.

However, all was going well until a week or so ago.

University Set For 104th Year

One Full-Service Professor Reported Returning For Year

The University of Mississippi will begin its 104th session on Sunday, Sept. 16, and a near record enrollment is expected, according to Registar Robert B. Ellis.

The orientation program for new students will begin Monday morning and conclude on Wednesday. After upperclassmen complete their class schedules on Thursday, new students will be enrolled. Classes begin on Friday.

Only one faculty member who has seen full service during the University's 103 previous years is returning for the current year, that being Dr. James W. Silver, History Department Head.

Attractive Reading Material Is Urged

Reading material for children must be made more attractive to the eye if it is to compete with television and other forms of communication, the Mississippi Optometric Association said today.

"Two qualities stand out in reading material that is popular with children," the Association said. "One is large type, and the other is effective use of color.

"Concentration is difficult for the grade school child. The smaller thechild the larger the type needed. Color has far more appeal o a young child than to an adult."

Th eAssociation said that a revolution is taking place in textbook publishing as a result of the competition of television, films and other visual forms of communication and a better understanding of visual requirements.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays Talk On —

The Moral Aspects Of Segregation

Whenever a strong dominant group possesses all the power, political, educational, economic, and wields all the power; makes all the laws, municipal, state and federal, and administers all the laws; writes all constitutions, municipal, state and federal, and interprets these constitutions; collects and holds all the money, municipal, state, and federal and distributes all the money; determines all policies — governmental, businses, political and educational; when that group plans and places heavy burdens, grievous to be borne, upon the backs of the weak, that act is immoral. If the strong group is a Christian group or a follower of Judasim both of which contend that God is creator, judge, impartial, just, universal, love and that man was created in God's image, the act is against God and man — thus immoral. If the strong group is atheistic, the act is against humanity — still immoral.

No group is wise enough, good enough, strong enough, to assume an omnipotent and omniscient role; no group is good enough, wise enough to restrict the mind, circumscribe the soul, and to limit the physical movements of another group. To do that is balasphemy. It is a usurpation of the role of God.

If the strong handicaps the weak on the grounds of race or color, it is all the more immoral because we penalize the group for conditions over which it has no control, for being what nature or nature's God made it. And that is tantamount to saying to God, "You made a mistake, God, when you didn't make all races white." If there were a law which said that an illiterate group had to be segregated, the segreated group could go to school and become literate. If there were a law which said that all peoples with incomes below $5,000 a year had to be segerated the people under $5,000 a year could strive to rise above the $5,000 bracket. If there were a law which said that men and women who did not bathe had to be segerated, they could develop the habit of daily baths and remove the stigma. If there were a law which said that all groups had to be Catholics, the Jews and Protestants could do something about joining the Catholic Church. But to segregate a man because his skin is brown or black, red or yellow, is to segerate a man for circumstances over which he has no control. And of all immoral acts, this is the most immoral.

So the May 17, 1954, Decision of the Supreme Cuort and all the decisions against segeration are possible for a member of the segregated group if it involves a member of the group imposing segregation. The segregated has no rights that the segregator is bound to respect.

The chief sin of segregation is the distortion of human personality. It damages the soul of both the segregator and the segregated. It gives the segrageted a feeling of inherent inferiority which is not based on facts, and it gives the segregator a feeling of superiorty which is not based on facts. It is difficult to know who is damaged more — the segregated or the segregator.

It is false accusation to say that Negroes hail the May 17, 1954, Decision of the Supreme Court because they mant to mingle socially with white people. Negroes want segregation abolished because they want the legal stigma of inferiority removed and because they do not believe that equality of educational opportunities can be completely achieved in a society where the law brands a group inferior. When a Negro rides in a Pullman unsegregated he does it not because he wants to ride with white people. He may or may not engage in conversations with a white person. He wants good accommodations. When he eats in an unsegregated diner on the train, he goes because he is hungry and not because he wants to eat with white people. He goes to the diner not even to mingle with Negroes but to get something to eat. But as he eats and rides he wants no badge of inferiorty pinned on his back. He wants to eat and ride with dignity. No Negro clothed in his right mind believes that his social status will be enhanced just because he associates with white people.

It is also a false accusation to say that Negroes are insisting that segregated schools must be abolished today or tomorrow, simultaneously all over the place. As far as I know, no Negro leader has ever advocated that, and they have not even said when desegregation is to be a finished job. They do say that the Supreme Court is the highest law of the land and we should respect that law. Negro leaders do say that each local community should bring together the racial groups in that community, calmly sit down and plan ways and means not how they can circumvent the decision but how they can implement it and plan together when and where they will start. They will be able to start sooner in some places than in others and move faster in some places than in others but begin the process in good faith and with good intent. To deliberately scheme, to deliberate-

Lieutenant Governor, Jim Carden, Addresses Club At Meet Last Week

Members of the Petal Optimist Club heard Lieutenant Governor Jim Carden of Meridian at their regular weekly meeting last Thursday night.

Mr. Carden spoke on "Achievements and Awards", stressing the importance of membership, attendance, Boy's work with oratorical contest, life membership, and new club building.

Three new members were officially inducted into the club by Mr. Carden. They were Art Micello, L. C. Guess, and Al Henderson, all of Petal. All three new members were presented pins by their sponsor, Burrell C. Young.

Club President, Dr. O. N. Ashcraft, presented the club's sponsor, Miss Bonnie McCoy, with a pin.

Kaiser C. Runnels of the Hattiesburg Optimist Club was a guest.

Following the regular meeting, a board meeting was held. John D. McElhaney, membership chairman, gave a report, in which it was announced that five new members were gained during July and August.

Burrell C. Young, program chairman, stated that the speaker for this week would be Ott Brackman of Southern Bell Telephone Company, who will talk on solar power. On September 20th, according to Mr. Young, Reed Green, athletic director of Mississippi Southern College, will be the guest speaker.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. O. N. Ashcraft, president of the local club.

Not that four mouths in the East household weren't hard enough to feed, we had to take on two more. They are: Mister Colonel Houndog Rebel, a small Hienz, (You know the old joke about the dog being a Hienz . . . 57 varieties.) and The Texas Ranger, a turtle of some kind or other. As I said, Billie and I have trouble feeding Karen and ourselves, but daughter Karen is unconcerned with such mundane matters. She has that fool cat, Philbur, the dog, and the turtle.

However, all was going well until a week or so ago. One afternoon I came home in bad need of a drink of iced water. I found the refrigerator empty, and upon asking why, I was told the sad tale of the East family. Seems that Colonel Houndog Rebel and Philbur were eating from the same bowl on the back steps, and unnoticed by anyone, up walked The Texas Ranger. The Texas Ranger, not being able to get to the food, just decided to take a hunk of Colonel Rebel's tail . . . which he did. The Houndog went straight up, but to no avail, the turtle being about as large as he. The noise excited Philbur, who backed off to watch the struggle. In the meantime a friend of Philbur's came by to see the acts performed by members of the East household. Along about then Karen got into the act by screaming to the top of her lungs. What with all the noise, the two cats began fighting.

When Billie got to the back to see what was happening, the situation was this: One dog yelling "Murder!" Two cats fighting, and one child outdoing the others, insofar as noise was concerned.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation, Billie grabbed the ice water in the refrigerator and wet all parties concerned. They all stopped screaming and fighting and yelling.

I might add the most placid member of the party was The Texas Ranger; he didn't utter a sound.

Last week, for two reasons, I dropped in on Ben Shemper, whose place of business is on Bouie Street. In all honesty, it is always a real pleasure to see Ben. (And not just because he's an advertiser . . . of course, it helped.) I found Ben out in the back of his 10 or 12 acre junk yard, supervising the cutting of metals for shipping. He was jumping around like a live battery.

Anyway, Ben was quite busy, so for a while I waited to try to sell him an ad, but finally, noting more and more people looking for him, I just went away. But while I was spending a few minutes waiting for Ben, I took a look around his yard. By golly, any person wanting most anything can find it there! Ben's got a good ten acres of everything.

Often I've wondered what happened to old cars, when they passed the stage where a dealer can no longer wring a buck from them. Now I know. Ben Shemper has them, and what he doesn't have I think his brother, Frank, has at his place on Broadway Drive. I saw piles of nothing but generators from autos; stacks of batteries — matter of fact, almost all of one large building is filled with old batteries. Sacks by the truck load . . . tires by the train load . . . old autos, too . . . and miscellaneous junk by the boat load is to be seen at Ben's place.

Frankly, and not because Ben is an advertiser, but in all seriousness, the operation is most interesting. I saw practically every kind of auto made . . . Fords, Chevrolets, Buicks, Dodges, Hudsons, and even one Chrysler. (Ben and I are presently dickering over the value of mine, subject to the approval of CIT, of course.)

All in all, it was an interesting experience. I have no idea how much junk they process each day, but I can say this: No one was loafing . . . not even the boss.

P. D. East, Editor
The Petal Paper
Petal, Miss.
Dear Mr. East:

With the exception of one thing the Petal Paper is a nice newsy little newspaper. That one thing is you. That bit of profanity you call an editorial, or rather a legitimate gripe, is about the most stupid and downright disgraceful bit of printing that has ever been written. You're in the wrong business; you ought to join one of the lusty book writers that are making so much money.

Frankly, you are a disgrace to Petal. The fact that you live in Hattiesburg makes it a little better. As far as owning a bill, that doesn't mean you are not a Christian, but words like you use right on the front page of the paper do.Besides, who are you to criticize God? That's what you are doing, and that is definitely what is known as hypocrisy. You head the list.

We also happen to know a few of your subscribers who plan to drop your paper just because of your editoritls. Maybe you will go out of business. Why don't you name the silly thing East's Paper instead of Petal. It would be appreciated. Not only are you a disgrace to the community, but also your Church, that is if you have one.

A hint to the wise should be sufficient.

Sincerely yours,
Elaine Clark and
Louise Hutchinson

Dear Friends:

Yep, I got the hint. As to those lusty book writers, I am unfamiliar with them, having spent most of time looking up the meaning of words in the dictionary.

Kindest regards,
P. D. East

When baby goes travelling, you ride easier if he's snugged away in a new car bed that can be strapped behind the front seat, high enough for Mother to reach. It's made of washable denim, hung on a frame of aluminum tubing, and has a wet-proof mattress pad. It fits any hard-top car, folds out of the way when not in use, and leaves enough leg room for rear seat passengers. You'll find it in department stores for about $9.95.—Town Journal.

moral because we [illegible] group for conditions over which it has no control, for being what nature or nature's God made it. And that is tantamount to saying to God, "You made a mistake, God, when you didn't make all races white." If there were a law which said that an illiterate group had to be segregated, the segreated group could go to school and become literate. If there were a law which said that all peoples with incomes below $5,000 a year had to be segerated the people under $5,000 a year could strive to rise above the $5,000 bracket. If there were a law which said that men and women who did not bathe had to be segerated, they could develop the habit of daily baths and remove the stigma. If there were a law which said that all groups had to be Catholics, the Jews and Protestants could do something about joining the Catholic Church. But to segregate a man because his skin is brown or black, red or yellow, is to segerate a man for circumstances over which he has no control. And of all immoral acts, this is the most immoral.

So the May 17, 1954, Decision of the Supreme Cuort and all the decisions against segeration are attempts on the part of the judges involved to abolish a great wrong which the strong has deliberately placed upon the backs of the weak. It is an attempt on the part of federal and state judges to remove this stigma, this wrong through constitutional means, which is the democratic, American way.

I said a moment ago that if the strong deliberately picks out a weak racial group and places upon it heavy burdens that act is immoral. Let me try to analyze this burden, segeration, which has been imposed upon millions of Americans of color. There are at least three main reasons for legal segreation in the United States.

1. The first objective of segregation is to place a legal badge of inferiority upon the segregated, to brand him as unfit to move freely among human beings. This badge says the segregaated is mentally, morally, and socially unfit to move around as a free man.
2. The second objective of segregation is to set the segregated apart so that he can be treated as an inferior: in the courts, in recreation, in transportation, in politics, in government, in employment, in religion, in education, in hotels, in motels, restaurants and in every other area of American life. And all of this has been done without the consent of the segregated.
3. The third objective of legalized segregation follows from the first two. It is designed to make the segregated believe that he is inferior, that he is nobody and to make him accept willingly his inferior status in society. It is these conditions which the May 17, 1954, Decision of the Supreme Court and other federal decisions against segregations are designed to correct — to remove this immoral stigma htat has been placed upon 16 million Negro Americans, and these are the reasons every thinking Negro wants the legal badge of segregation removed so that he might be able to walk the earth with dignity, as a man, and not cringe and kow-tow as a slave. He believes that this is his God-given right on the earth.

Segregation is immoral because is has inflicted a wound upon the soul of the segregated and so restricted his mind that millions of Negroes now alive will never be cured of the disease of inferioroty. Many of them have come to feel and believe that they are inferior or that the cards are so stacked against them that it is useless for them to strive for the highest and the best. Segregate a race for ninety years, tell that race in books, in law, in courts, in education, in church and school, in employment, in transportation, in hotels and motels, in the government that it is inferior — it is bound to leave its damaging mark upon the souls and minds of the segregated. It is these conditions that the federal courts seek to change.

Any country that restricts the full development of any segment of society retards its own growth and development. The segregated produces less, and even the minds of the strong group are circumscribed because they are often afraid to pursue the whole truth and they spend too much time seeking ways and means of how to keep the segregated group in "its place." Segregation is immoral because it leads to injustice, brutality, and lynching on the part of the group that segregate. The segregated is somebody that can be pushed around as desired by the segregator. As a rule equal justice in the courts is almost immingle with Negroes but to get something to eat. But as he eats and rides he wants no badge of inferiorty pinned on his back. He wants to eat and ride with dignity. No Negro clothed in his right mind believes that his social status will be enhanced just because he associates with white people.

It is also a false accusation to say that Negroes are insisting that segregated schools must be abolished today or tomorrow, simultaneously all over the place. As far as I know, no Negro leader has ever advocated that, and they have not even said when desegregation is to be a finished job. They do say that the Supreme Court is the highest law of the land and we should respect that law. Negro leaders do say that each local community should bring together the racial groups in that community, calmly sit down and plan ways and means not how they can circumvent the decision but how they can implement it and plan together when and where they will start. They will be able to start sooner in some places than in others and move faster in some places than in others but begin the process in good faith and with good intent. To deliberately scheme, to deliberately plan through nefarious methods, through violence, boycott and threats to nullify the Decision of the highest law in the land is not only immoral but it encourages a disregard for all laws which we do not like.

We meet the moral issue again. To write into our constitutions things that we do not intend to carry out is an immoral act. I think I am right when I say that most of our states, certainly some of them, say in their constitutions "seperate but equal." But you know as well as I do that on the whole the gulf of inequality in education widened with the years. There was no serious attempt nor desire in this country to provide Negroes with educational opportunities equal to those for whites. The great surge to equalize educational opportunities for Negroes did not begin until after 1953 when Murray won his suit to enter the law school of the University of Maryland. It is also clear that the millions poured into Negro education in the last 20 years were appropriated not so much because it was right but in an endeavor to maintain segregation.

We brought this situation upon ourselves. We here in the South have said all along that we believe in segregation but equal segregation. In 1896 in the Louisiana case, Plessy versus Ferguson, the United States Supreme Cuort confirmed the doctrine "separate but equal." But from 1896 to 1935 there was practically nothing done toequal. When Murray won his case in 1935, weknew we had to move toward equalization. Since 1935 many suits have been won.

It would have been a mighty fine thing if we had obeyed the Supreme Court in 1896 and equalized educational opportunities for Negroes. If we had done that the problem would have been solved because gradually the seperate school system would have been abolished and we would have been saved from the agony and fear of this hour. We didn't obey the Supreme Court in 1896 and we do not want to obey it now.

Let me say again that the May 17, 1954, Decision of the Supreme Court is an effort to abolish a great evil through orderly processes. And we are morally obligated to implement the Decision or modify the federal constitution and say plainly that this constitution was meant for white people and not for Negroes and that the Declaration of Independence created mostly by the mind of the great southerner, Thomas Jefferson, was meant for white people and not Negroes. Tell the world honestly that we do not believe that part of the Declaration of Independence which says in essence that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

We are morally obligated to abolish legalized segregation in America or reinterpret the Christian Gospel, the Old and New Testaments, and make the Gospel say that the noble principles of Judaism and Christianity are not applicable to colored peoples and Negroes. Tell the world honestly and plainly that the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man cannot work where the colored races are involved. We are morally obligated to move toward implementing the Decision in the deep south or lose our moral leadership in the world. If we do not do it, we must play the role of hypocrisy, preaching one thing and doing another. This is the dilemma which faces our democracy.

The eyes of the world are upon us. One billion

State Fair Dates October 8-13th

he 1956 State Fair (Mississippi Agricultural and Industrail Expoosition), the big event of the year, will take place the week of October 8th through 13th at the State Fairgrounds Jackson. From the standpoint of crowds attending, as well as exhibits and entries, this is expected to be an unusually outstanding year in the fair's history.

N. S. Hand, who has succeeded J. M. Dean as Executive Secretary of the Fair, has announced that all arrangements have been completed for making this "the biggest Fair yet."

Mr. Hand went on to state the reasons necessitating the pay gate schedule which will be in effect during Fair Week this year.

He quoted State Senate Bill No. 1956, Section I, which, in part, reads: "The Mississippi Agrimultural and Industrail Exposition Commission, created by Chapter 295, Laws of 1946, shall charge for admission to the State Fair. The proceeds thereof shall be used exclusively for the repaymen of revenue bonds issued fo rthe purpose of constructing, equipping and furnishing new buildings sand making improvements on the State Fairgrounds."

he Executive Secretary further said that this bill, which was approved by the Governor on April 5, 1956, authorizes the State Building Commission to provide for the issuance of not more than $300,000 in revenue bonds at any one time for the purpose indicated.

"Since this is the case," said Mr. Hand, "and as the State Fair belongs to othe people of Mississippi, the only logical way to provide new buildings and additional improvements needed for the expostion purposes is to set up a pay gate as other states have been doing for many years past."

Compared with admission charges made by other states, the gate fees for the 1956 Mississippi State Fair are held to an absolute minimum.

General admission for all persons over 15 years is to be 50c while children between the ages of 6 and 15 are to be admitted for 10c. Children under 6, when accompanied by an adult, are admitted free. The price of the livestock ehibitors, employees, concessionnaries and helper's season tickets are $1.00 each. Season tickets permit multiple admissions daily during the Fair but are not transferrable. Ticket books containing six tickets each will be made available in advance of Fair Week for $2.00. These tickets are transferrable but good for single admission only.

Dr. Underwood's Report On School Health Progress

By Dr. Felix Underwood

This fall as parents entrust some half million children to the public schools, they can do so with assurance that healthwise we are doing everything in our power to protect the school population.

Water supplies, heating systems, sewage disposal, and playgrounds in all the schools in the state, are carefully watched by our sanitarians for any infractions of public health regulations and requirements. The plans of all new school buildings are inspected and approved by our sanitary engineers in order to safe guard the school enviroment from health hazards that once were so prevalent.

As all other public eating places, the school lunchrooms are periodically inspected, in order to insure safety from outbreaks of food posoning, the diarrheas and dysenteries that come from unsafefoodsand unsanitary foodhandling.

To keep down outbreaks of serious contagious and infectious diseases, our workers have given and contiue to give, in both school clinics and health departments, vaccinations against typhoid, diphtheia and smallpox. And with the availabilty, inrecent months, of polio vaccine to all school children, the fear of epidemic polio diminishes, as more and more children receive or more colored people in Asia and Africa are judging our democracy solely on the basis of how we treat Negroes. White Europe is watching us too. I shall never forget the day in Lucknow, India, when nine reporters from all over India questioned me 90 minutes about how Negroes are treated in the United States. I shall remember to my dying day the event in 1937 when the principal of an untouchable school introduced me to his boys as an untouchable from the United States. At first it angered me. But on second thought I knew that he was right.Though great progress has been made, for which I am grateful, I and my kind are still untouchables in many sections of the cuontry. There are places where wealth, decency, culture, education, religion, and position will do no good if a Negro. None of these things can take away the mark of untouchability. And the world knows this.

Recently a group of colored students from Asia, Africa, the Middle East and South America were visiting an outstanding Southern town. All the colored people except those from Africa and Haiti could live in the downtown hotels. The Africans and the Haitians had to seek refuge on the campus of a Negro College. That incident was known to all the other colored students and it will be told many times in Europe, Asia, Africa — and it will not help us in our efforts to democratize the world.

Not long ago a Jew from South Africa and a man from India were guests of a Negro professor. He drove them for several days through the urban and rural sections of his state. The Negro, the host, a citizen of the United States, could not get food from the hotels and restaurants. His guests, one a Jew and the other an Indian, had to go in and buy food for him. The man who intorduced me in India as an untouchable was right. The Negro is America's untouchable.

Two or three years ago a friend of mine was traveling in Germany. He met a German who had traveled widely in the United States. He told my friend that he hangs his head in shame every time he thinks of what his country did to the Jews — killing six millions of them. But he told my friend that after seeing what segregation has done to the soul of the Negro in the South, he has come to the conclusion that it is worse than what Hitler and his colleagues did to the Jews in Germany.

Make no mistake — as this country could not exist half slave and half free, it cannot exist half segregated and half desegregated. The Supreme Court has given America an opportunity to achieve greatness in the area of moral and spritual things just as it has already achieved greatness in military and industrial might and in material possessions. It is my belief that the South will accept the challenge of the Supreme Court and thus make America and the South safe for democracy.

If we lose this battle for freedom for 16 million Negroes we will lose it for 145 million whites and eventually we will lose it for the world. This is indeed a time for greatness.

Even tho the days are so hot one cannot work in the garden and fields about noon and a little later, when dusk comes creeping over the horison there is a faint suggestion of an early fall in the air.

Already the wild plums have taken on a dusky sheen that seems to gild the lovely cheek of the best early fall fruit. Muscadines have begun to fall with clear plinks into the deep pools of Agnes branch, and happily the heavy floods of early spring didn't move the fallen log that serves as a stop for the muscadines as they drift their lazy way over the depths that house little frisky fishes, sweetly fatted mudcats and big turtles one only sees when the hum and cotton sacks are being made ready for gathering a white harvest; the boys are up early to work while the air is still sweet and cool from night; I shun the dew wet garden and wait until the sun is hot across my shoulders to gather great baskets of the finest vegetables. Already the freezer is packed down against the winter days; I left one corner for a few packages of corn-on-the-cob, when the last row comes in. I grieve that I have no use for the tomatoes, okra and bell peppers that are such beauties. We planted more than we knew we could use. Once they are gathered, I give away what I can, and throw the rest over to the pigs and chickens.

POUND CAKE

1½ cups butter
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon vanilla
3 cups sifted suger
9 eggs
1 Teaspoon rum extract

Our electric fans are important items during these hot summer days. Let's give them the proper care to keep them in good operating order and give them a longer life of usefulness.

There is little about a fan to get out of order if it is kept clean and oiled according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Avoid falls or bumps that might bend the fan blades or the guard. When you clean the fan blades, be careful not to spring or bend them.

Be sure the fan is disconnected from the convience outlet when you clean or oil it and not just turned "off." It is easy to hit the switch and turn it to "oon," which could cause a serious accident.

Some small portable fans have one place to lubrcaite; others, two places. These places are at the end of the motor. When you use fans continuously each ay, oil them as follows:

1. Use 1 or 2 drops daily if one hole is provided.
2. Use 2 or 3 drops weekly if two oil cups or holes are provided.
3. If the fan has wick oilers, fill the cups with light grade of cup grease once a year.

Patterns Standard

You have probably found that one dress patern of size 12 fits you best and your size in a pattern of another company was a size 14.

That has been a disadvantage of commercial patterns of each of the five major pattern companies. They had differences in their measurement charts.

Your worries of this type are on their way to being over. A revised standard of measurements has been approved for the Measurement Standard Committee of the Pattern Industry.

Charts showing these revised measurements now appear in current catalogues of all major pattern companies. The old type patterns will be sold for a while, so be sure you know which kind you are buying.

These measurements were adopted by the industry after long study in order to give you a better fitting garment, and encourage more use of the available patterns.

Navy Airfield At Meridian

The establishment of a Navy training airfield 12 miles northeast of Meridian hopes to be operating aircraft from the field by July of 1958, though some construction will continue beyond that date. There will be 200 aviators, all student officers, in training at the new base, 2000 enlisted men and 400 locally-hired civilians. The airfield will occupy about 8,000 acres of land, to be bought from private owners, and experienced pilots will fly low speed jet aircraft from the field.

In 1900 7½ million Americans owned their homes compared with 25 million today.

About 95 per cent of US farm dwellings are made of wood.

Then the drift seems as if it is some strange mysterious tree hanging with odd fruits. The turtles remain motionless until the sun moves away, then they tumble into the cool water to play or sleep, of whatever turtles do when they are in the water.

Shady Rest has had a period of rest; at least two weeks, when the only job that must be done and often was the dusting of the cotton patch; the milking, feeding chickens, etc., is something that goes on year around and we never notice the doing of it.

Now the gins are beginning to hum and cotton sacks are being made ready for gathering a white harvest; the boys are up early to work while the air is still sweet and cool from night; I shun the dew wet garden and wait until the sun is hot across my shoulders to gather great baskets of the finest vegetables. Already the freezer is packed down against the winter days; I left one corner for a few packages of corn-on-the-cob, when the last row comes in. Once they are gathered, I give away what I can, and throw the rest over to the pigs and chickens.

The recipes I have given you over the past ten years have without an exception been good ones. Several have written to say they failed on the buttermilk cake recipe I gave you about two months ago; however dozens and dozens have told of success and how they liked the cake. I feel that the failures were due to bad mixing methods, an oven too hot or too cold, or slamming of the oven door while being baked.

Honestly there is no way to make a failure with that recipe if you follow directions.

The recipe below is on that is a real prize winner. Mrs. Gladys Simmons of McComb, won first

Again let me say how much your cards and letters have meant to me and of course Rose, Jr., has been delighted with all the attention she has been getting . . . presents of all kinds have been hers, along with reading matter, letters and cards. If she isn't spoiled by the time school starts it will be a thousand wonders.

Last week when she had gotten five boxes of candy she asked me how old I was when I got my first box of candy . . . and in a smug voice said, "I am only eight years old and have gotten more than you did by the time you were twenty."

We were delighted to have Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Luckett, of 605 Lynch St., Jackson, Miss Mary Ann Catlett of Jackson, and Miss

Information On Social Security

By
Luther N. Davis

If you tre geeting social security benefits, did you earn over .1200 last year? That's an important question for social security beneficiaries.

The liberalized retirement test became effective in 1955. Social security beneficiaries under the age of 72 who had earnings of over $1200 in 1955 must file a report with the Social Security Administration. Those beneficiaries who informed the social security office of earnings during 1955 have already reeeived the report forms. A special reminder notice was mailed with social security checks on February 3. This notice will serve to remind those persons who received forms to complete them and mail them. It will also inform others who should file the report, but didn't receive one, to get in touch with their social security office. The district office for this area is located in the Carpenters Building at Forrest and Burnie Streets. Annual reports must be filed by March 15, unless the individual reports on a fiscal-year basis.

Retirement is defined by the Social Security Act in terms ofo earnings. Starting in 1955, the retirement test has been put on an annual basis. If you earn $1200 or less in a year, you are coonsidered to be retired and entitled to all social security checks for the year. If you are under 72 years of age and earn between $1200 and $2080, yoou will be entitled to some checks. Earnings of over $2080 wiTll cause deductions for the whole year. for any month in which a person odes not earn over $80 in wages or in which he does not render substantial services as a selfemployed person, regardless of the amount of his earnings in other months of the year. After age 72, benefits are paid regardless of the amount earned.

KEEP THIS BRAND OFF THE GRASS

JUST THE FLICK OF A FINGER from a speeding automobile. A glowing cigarette lands in a clump of sun-dried grass. In minutes, the roaring blaze of another range fire races across the land.

Our open ranges are particularly susceptible to fire because of the quickness with which the flames spread. The term "go like wildfire" is handed down from the pioneers who knew only too well the dreaded speed and devastation of these holocausts.

Each year thousands of acres of valuable range lands are blackened in the U.S. Range fires burn grain, cattle and other livestock—destroy farms and ranches. The tragic part of all this is that range fires can be prevented! Because 9 out of 10 range fires are caused by carelessness—yours and your neighbor's.

Pledge yourself to be extra careful this year with matches, smokes, campfires, clearing fires—any fire. Make sure every spark is out—dead out!

Remember-
Only you can PREVENT RANGE FIRES!

I WILL BE CAREFUL!
